

Grants for persistent pelvic pain eLearning course for General Practitioners (GPs)

Grant Guidelines

Primary Health Tasmania is offering educational scholarships for GPs working in Tasmania with an interest in Persistent Pelvic Pain (PPP) and Endometriosis to complete the Vagenius eLearning course on the treatment and management of PPP and endometriosis.

Primary Health Tasmania will fund the entire cost of enrolment into this course directly to the training provider.

The course: Persistent Pelvic Pain – Leadership in Care

RANZCOG, RACGP, RNZCGP, and ACRRM approved. Endorsed by ACNP.

The course offers a self paced virtual learning environment and is RACGP accredited CPD hours totalling 15.5

- 9 Hours Educational Activities
- 1.5 Hours Reviewing Performance
- 5 Hours Measuring Outcomes

This structured and practical course supports GPs in the diagnosis, treatment and management of persistent pelvic pain, including making a presumptive diagnosis of endometriosis. It is accessible online and is tailored for GPs wherever they practice. It includes trauma informed, culturally safe practice, communication and validation, with GP and clinician-led learning modules, specialists' input, real case studies and more. Approached in a systematic, structured way, the course can be completed at a participant's own pace, across all devices, picking up where they left off.

The course also includes two peer group learning sessions per year.

There are six modules broken into learning outcomes, which provide structured, practical learning in the treatment and management of PPP.

- Module 1 – Why have a course on Persistent Pelvic Pain (PPP)
- Module 2 – Exploring the history further
- Module 3 – Examinations and investigations: thinking outside the box
- Module 4 – How to reduce pain with pain science education
- Module 5 – GP management of PPP and team leadership
- Module 6 – Collaborative care planning: maintaining care and moving forward
